Results revealed in teen health survey

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

The Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee (RAHAC) sponsored a public hearing to describe the work they have been doing since last December and reveal the results of a survey given to students and parents in March and April.

Following the survey the RAHAC recommended that it slow down and study the situation more thoroughly and then decide whether or not a teen health center would be right for Romulus. After that, Romulus residents were given the opportunity to remark on the survey results and comment on the need for a health center.

Many of the people in attendance did not feel Romulus needed or had the right to have a teen health center. Parents suggested that there were alternatives including adult and teen education classes. Parents further noted that there are local clinics already available and suggested that funding for more school nurses might be more effective in taking care of teen health needs. Opposition to the schools involvement in family life was also discussed at the meeting.

Parents were insistent on the moral implications of birth control at the clinic and suggested that government control of moral values was wrong and not the province of a free clinic.

Other parents were in favor of a clinic noting that if a teen cannot come to a parent for some reason, health information should be available somewhere else for them. Parents noted that some teens need nonjudgmental advice and the opportunity to act in a responsible manner in taking care of their own health needs.

Many services were requested by the students to be included in the health center.

Surveys were submitted to the RAHAC by 750 junior high school students, and 1,400 senior high school students. Results indicate that 77 percent of the junior high school students and 93.9 percent of the senior high school students want a teen health center in or around school.

Many services were requested by the students to be included in the health center. Among the requests, 63 percent of the students wanted the center to provide school and sports physicals, 50 percent wanted a counseling program to help students deal with death, 49 percent wanted counseling to help them deal with peer pressure, 48 percent wanted counseling for drugs and/or alcohol problems, and personal problems and/or stress, 46 percent wanted suicide prevention information, 45 percent wanted information on AIDS and also on weight control and nutrition services, 43 percent wanted help to stop smoking and counseling regarding school problems, 42 percent wanted sex education along with 41 percent who wanted birth control information, 39 percent wanted help getting along better their parents, 38 percent wanted sexuality counseling, 37 percent wanted pregnancy detection and care, and birth

Incumbents get voters' nod

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Incumbents Kenneth E. Berlin and Pat Patterson were re-elected to four-year terms on the Romulus School Board during the election Monday.

Berlin received a total of 817 votes followed by Patterson with 762. JoAnn Marviesin received 545 votes from the 1,352 voters who went to the polls Monday.

Also on the ballot were two millage propositions that were defeated by voters for the second time this year.

Proposition A received 583 yes votes and 768 no votes. The proposition had called for a one-year 4.5 mill increase in operating funds to be used for salaries, utilities and operating costs. The proposition, however, would not have increased taxes because the board of education would reduce the long-term debt fund the same 4.5 mills, according to school officials.

Proposition B received 604 yes votes and 709 no votes. The proposition called for a 2-mill increase beginning the year after next. This would not increase taxes as board members would continue the reduction of 2 mills from the debt fund. As in the first proposition, the total tax rate of the school district will be identical to last year.

Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools, said after the election, "Our biggest enemy is the voters' apathy. I know the issue is complex but hopefully if we keep putting the information out there it will sink in. If they understand (the language) they will vote yes because there is no increase to taxes and the schools will be able to keep a balance."

Bedell said that the schools are looking into the legal aspects of putting the same proposals on the primary election ballots in August and, if necessary, the presidential ballot in November because the voter turnout will be greater.

"The way the state finances," Bedell explained. "This school district has no choice other than asking for millage increase," he stated.

"If the millage does not pass we will have to make cuts up and down. We are required by law to get rid of our deficit ($1,098,341) and the cuts will start next January. No more special programs, physical education for elementary...and many more other cuts will be taking place," Bedell said.

Yearbook is blasted by students, parents

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Angry parents and high school students crowded the meeting room of the Romulus School Board last week to voice their complaints regarding errors in the annual yearbook.

Romulus High School students received their yearbooks last week but several students, including some seniors, were not pictured. There were other problems with the yearbook including three blank pages that were designed to include "Senior Pedigrees," a listing of the activities and clubs the seniors were involved with throughout high school, and a cover that read "Eagle" rather than "Eagles," according to parents and students at the meeting last week.

In a memorandum sent earlier in the week, high school yearbook advisor William Knight told Superintendent Dr. William Bedell that there were two problems with the yearbook. According to Knight's memo, three senior pictures were not included in the yearbook because the photo studio neglected to send the pictures to him.

Knight also explained that the information that was to fill the three blank pages in the yearbook was sent, along with headlines and page numbers, to the yearbook company. "The company says they did not receive the copy. However, they printed the headlines and page numbers, all of which are on the same disk," Knight said. He went on to say that the yearbook staff has a copy of all the disks and the original with all the missing information.

Parents and students at the meeting demanded that the board members take some action regarding the poor quality

"Our kids deserve another yearbook," said Patricia Sprinkle, whose son, senior Richard Makela, was left out of the yearbook. "I paid $300 for pictures and I was assured by Ron's Studio that his picture would be in the yearbook," she said. "But I'm more upset for the kids, especially the seniors, because 20 years from now they'll look up their friends and some of them won't be there," Sprinkle added.

School board member Edward Wilkerson noted that his daughter had the wrong picture put in the yearbook.

Board members agreed to stop payments to the yearbook company until the school attorney could investigate avenues of redress in the matter. Board members explained that the yearbook company offered to provide inserts of the missing pages and photos of the students who were not included to the students at no extra cost.

"I think the school board should remember that a lot of those seniors are 18 and have already and will continue to vote on millages and school board elections," Sprinkle said.

Fond farewell

Classmates bid goodbye to special friend

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

It's always hard to move away and leave your friends, especially if you're a 6-year-old boy who is not only moving to a different city, but a different country.

As a send off, Barth Elementary School kindergarten students in Rose Raspberry's class took time out Monday afternoon to give Martin Anderson a going away party, complete with chocolate pretzels and a German dancer who told the students about Germany. In a couple weeks Martin, his 15-year-old brother, Jason, and 4-year-old sister, Amy, along with mom, Mary Anderson and the family dog, Queen, will join their father, Joe, in Vilseck, West Germany, where he has been living for the past month.

Anderson, who is a mechanic for General Dynamics, had been transferred to Europe to work on XM tanks for the United States Army.

"Right now we're in the process of moving out, and we should be out of the house by next weekend," said Martin's mother, who has lived in Romulus her whole life. "I don't think Martin realized until this party that he'll be away from his friends for a long time," she added.

Martin said he "sorta likes the idea of moving but I'm going to miss my friends."

Martin has heard there are a lot of mountains near where he will live, but doesn't know much about Germany. "I'm not scared about moving," Martin explained. "It will be great seeing my dad again because I miss him," he added. He also said he would be going to an American school on the Army base he will live next to but does want to learn German.

Martin was also looking forward to riding in a tank when he gets to Vilseck. "My dad told me he'd take me for a ride."

Martin's mom and all his grandparents attended his going away party at school along with several family friends and neighbors.

Debbie Romak, mother of Martin's friend, Ryan, arranged for the German dancer, Renate Green, to come to the party. She said she and her son were both going to miss Martin, she was also surprised at how quiet Martin was at his party. "Today he hasn't been himself. He's usually the life of the party. I think he's finally realizing he's going away for a long time. Just yesterday he was telling Ryan that he could go with him (to Germany) but that didn't work out," she said.

Jails on ballot Voters to decide fate of 1-mill request

A request for an additional mill - which could bring $20.5 million into the county coffers in 1989 - will be placed on the Aug. 2 ballot in an effort to fund additional jail space.

If voters support the request, groundbreaking for a new jail could be slated in 1989 with 1991 set as a target date for the opening of the new facility.

One mill is projected to produce $21.5 million in 1990, $22.6 million in 1991, $23.8 million in 1992, and $24.9 in 1994.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara announced the millage request, following a recommendation from the Wayne County Task Force. McNamara is expected to present a comprehensive proposal to address the future adult and juvenile incarceration needs when he meets with the Citizen's Task Force this week.

"We have looked at all of our options," McNamara said. "After carefully reviewing the study, it seems that the only answer to solving Wayne County's needs for more jail space will be with an additional jail millage."

McNamara said that during the past two years more than 4,000 prisoners were released from jail due to lack of space.

"We are going to stop these dangerous criminals from being turned loose on the street," McNamara said.

The report stated that there are currently 1,876 jail beds with 1,070 additional needed. The report also noted that, "at times, the number of youths in Youth Home reaches close to 300" even though the capacity is 200.

According to the report, plans are under way for a 470-bed expansion of the current jail, including 170 beds in the 13th floor gym, 60 beds in converted office space and 240 beds in the new recreation tower.

The report calls for an additional 600-bed misdemeanor/sentenced felon facility. In addition, it was recommended that the proposed 240 beds in the tower of the current jail be combined with the new facility for operational efficiency. It also recommends that a new 840-bed facility be constructed for misdemeanants and pretrial felons with 80 percent minimum security beds and 20 percent medium security beds.

Total capital needs, based on 8 percent annual increase in construction costs are projected to be:

230-bed expansion of current jail, $7 million;

840-bed misdemeanor/sentenced felon jail, $26 million, and 40-bed Youth Home expansion, $1 million.

Total capital costs are estimated to be $34 million.

Projected operational costs would include: expansion, $2.5 million; misdemeanor facility, $13 million; youth home expansion, $1.7 million, and added state youth beds, $2.5 million, or a total of $19.7 million.

The report noted that the misdemeanor facility is net cost based on $50 per day with an average of 150 prisoners which are billed to municipalities for ordinance violations.

BE YOUR OWN DETECTIVE IN THE FIGHT AGAINST BREAST CANCER!

By Floyd H. Lipa, M.D.

Breast cancer is the most common form of cancer among women today, and it continues to increase.

Fortunately, women can control their own breast health destiny to a great degree through careful detective work which should include knowledge of family medical history, information on breast cancer detection and treatments, frequent medical checkups with a physician, periodic mammograms, and self-breast examinations.

WHY IS FAMILY HISTORY IMPORTANT?

Breast cancer occurs in around one of every 11 women. However, if there is a family history of breast cancer, especially in the mother, or sister, the chances of developing cancer increases to one in four or five. According to the American Cancer Society, 130,000 women will develop breast cancer this year, resulting in 41,000 deaths. Good detective work through early detection could reduce these alarming numbers and your degree of risk.

WHERE CAN I GET INFORMATION?

You can begin with your physician. He or she may have booklets on detection and treatments in the office. Other sources include hospitals, drug stores, the American Cancer Society, and the library. And when you visit your doctor, ask questions.

WHEN SHOULD I SEE A DOCTOR?

Periodic checkups are extremely important for adult women of all ages. Breast exams by a physician are around 90 percent accurate. Since the incidence of cancer is directly related to age, most doctors agree that after age 40, women should have an annual checkup which includes a breast examination. Other high-risk factors include obesity, early menstruation, and late menopause. More and more doctors also are recommending mammograms.

WHAT IS A MAMMOGRAM?

With the advent of fully committed X-rays, so-called mammograms, the detection and diagnosis of breast cancer has improved greatly. The mammogram has brought to our attention very small malignancies that could not be felt by the patient, the doctor, or the surgeon. Most of the suspicious shadows on a mammography are non-cancerous. However, the surgeon may remove the lumps for fear of missing a cancer. A mammogram is about 80 percent accurate.

In next week's article, I will explain how to perform a self-breast examination. Also, I will discuss the diagnostic procedures, including biopsies, and surgical and chemotherapy treatments that are available for breast cancer.

County police are needed

Police officers are being sought for the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara said last week.

Openings are currently available in the county jail. The county is mandated by the state to operate the jail, McNamara said. However, current staff members are working overtime because of a shortage of personnel.

There are 55 permanent police officer positions available. Starting salary is $15,060.

Anyone interested in becoming a certified Wayne County Sheriff's deputy must have passed the Michigan Law Enforcement Training Council police tests for reading, writing and physical skills prior to application with the county.

In the senior high school, 62.7 percent of the students wanted counseling for drug and/or alcohol problems, 62.2 percent wanted suicide prevention information, 53.5 percent wanted school and sports physicals provided by the center, 52.6 percent wanted weight control and nutrition services, 52.7 percent wanted counseling for personal problems and/or stress. 52 percent wanted counseling to deal with peer pressure, 51.7 percent wanted birth control information, 48 percent wanted information on AIDS, 46.2 percent wanted pregnancy detection and care, 45.8 percent wanted sexuality education, 43.8 wanted help to stop smoking, 40.3 percent wanted help getting along better with their parents, 38.2 percent wanted counseling about school problems, and 37.1 percent information and help on child abuse.

The students were also asked how often they received medical care. Sixty-nine percent of the junior high students responded that they did go to the doctor when needed and 61 percent of the high school students responded the same way. Some of the reasons listed for not getting proper medical attention were no transportation available, clinic hours were not convenient, and the lack of money.

Cigarette use and substance abuse were addressed in the survey and the responses included 80 percent of junior high and 69 percent of senior high students said they never smoked, while 11 percent of the junior high and 19.7 percent of the senior high students responded that they smoked several times a day.

Drinking habits were also addressed in the survey. Senior high school results show 42.4 percent of students surveyed drink hard liquor once a week or more and 9.5 junior high school students drink alcohol at least once a week.

With the growing concern about AIDS and teenage pregnancy the survey also delved into the sexual activities of teens. When asked, "Have you engaged in sexual intercourse?", 29 percent of the junior high students responded, yes and 68.2 percent of the senior high students said they have had sexual intercourse. In those same groups, however, 58 percent of the junior high students rarely or never use birth control and 50 percent of the senior high school students repoded in the same way.

Parents were asked similar questions and 91 percent of the parents said that they would like to see a full-service teen health center in or near the school. Some of the top responses to what should be included in the center include : counseling for personal problems, alcohol and/or drug abuse and help for teens in coping with peer pressure. School and sports physicals should also be offered, according to parents, along with birth control information and counseling, to name a few suggestions.

For more information on the survey or RAHAC contact Kathleen Conway, project director, at 941-1600 extension 23.

The winner

The annual battle of the elementary schools was held at Romulus Junior High School last month and everyone came out a winner, according to Hayti principal Charles Shamey. "The purpose of the track meet is to advance the physical fitness of the fifth and sixth graders who compete and give them the opportunity to meet students they will be going to school with in junior high," said Shamey. The students from Cory, Hayti, Halecreek, Barth, Merriman and Wick schools competed in several events and ribbons were given to the top three boys and girls in each event. Halecreek Elementary School sponsored a college bowl between scholars representing "Georgetown University" and "Harvard University" in the Halecreek cafeteria last Friday afternoon. The sixth grade students representing Georgetown were captain Jeff Wilkinson, LeKeisha Holmes, Anita Hughes, Bobby Munroe, Jason Sample and Angela Thompkins. Sixth-graders representing Harvard were captain Leah Hance, Kim Davis, Abby Hance, Thomas Mezza, Tony Poletti and Bracken Spencer. The two teams squared off and answered questions given by moderator and principal Art McPharlin. Monitoring the event was teacher Sheila Stasak and the three judges were Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks, Cory Elementary Principal Pete Silveri, and Associated Newspapers photographer Ann Grimes. Also involved in the program were official scorekeeper, teacher Mrs. Jeffrey Royal, Student scorekeeper LaToya Holmes and VCR recorder Debra Gardner. Georgetown won the competition 500-370 and team members were awarded trophies furnished by the Parent Teacher Guild. Halecreek Spelling Bee winner, fifth-grader Gretchen Spencer, was also honored at the College Bowl. She received a dictionary from principal Art McPharlin. "Martin and my son spend their lives on bikes. They would get up at 8 in the morning and ride all day if they could...Donald and I are both going to miss Martin."

All of Martin's grandparents were sad to see the family go but were also happy that the opportunity arose for the Andersons to go to Germany. "I'm dying already, I already miss them. I don't live far from them so I see them all the time. I know Martin is going to miss his four little friends he hangs

Her husband, John, was going to miss them but thought it was a great opportunity. "In World War II I got to see Italy and Switzerland and also spend time in Nice, France when I was with the 465th artillery in the fifth army. I loved Europe and now this is their chance to see the world and I'm glad they can do it. Maggie Anderson, another grandparent, said that she was going to miss them but this gives her and her husband a chance to go visit. "I don't think the transition will be too difficult for the kids. Germany is a great country, I've been there twice and will visit them at least once a year during their stay."

Clarification

In the profiles of candidates running for a seat on the Romulus School Board last week, an answer to one question was mistakenly omitted for candidate JoAnn Marviesin. The second half of Marviesin's answer to "Why do you feel you are qualified to seek the position you seek?" was erroneously placed as her answer to "What do you feel are the major issues in this election, and what are your opinions of each?"

Fantasyland Junior High Band visits Disney World

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

When you wish upon a star... Seventy nine members of the Romulus Junior High School Symphonic Band wished themselves in Disney World during the Memorial Day weekend and their wish came true. The band traveled by bus to Orlando, Florida to perform at the Epcot Center but also had plenty of time to enjoy themselves at Disney World before being back in Romulus Monday night.

The band members highlighted their weekend visit by performing at the Epcot Center Friday, May 27 as part of "Magic Music Days," a special program celebrating 150 years of music in the public schools of America. The band played at 7 p.m. in the World Showcase Plaza.

The Symphonic Band was one of only 20 junior high school bands selected to perform at Epcot Center or Disney World this year. "We do allow junior high bands to play if they are good enough, but very few can pass the audition," Disney World Epcot Center management spokesmen explained.

Auditioning bands must submit tape recordings, pictures, festival results for the past 10 years, and other honors and citations won, and travel arrangements, according to Richard Kruse, the band director at the junior high school.

Kruse explained that officials at the Epcot Center pointed out four reasons why

The Romulus Schools earned a national and international reputation for excellence through this performance. The most common comment from concert watchers to Romulus parents was that they couldn't believe this was a junior high school band.

— Richard Kruse
Band Director

Romulus Junior High School was accepted to play, the band received a first divisional rating at the Michigan State Band Festival for nine consecutive years, they have been recognized in the Congressional record on four separate occasions by Congressman William Ford, they represented Michigan at the 150th celebration of Michigan in Washington D.C. Last June, and they submitted a quality audition tape. "The Romulus Schools earned a national and international reputation for excellence through this performance," said Kruse. "The most common comment from concert watchers to Romulus parents was that they couldn't believe that this was a junior high band. Many said that the Symphonic Band sounded better than their local high school band," Kruse added. The band was listed on the entertainment program Epcot Center officials distributed to more than 200,000 Memorial weekend patrons from throughout the United States and the world. Eighteen pop tunes were played in their musical program which lasted 40 minutes. Selections performed were songs from the 1950's through the 1980's. Each student was compensated with $50 in merchandise for his or her performance. Students received $22 off the three-day pass for Disney World and Epcot Center, three meal tickets worth $8 and a "Magic Music Days" shirt. Saturday included the entire day at Disney World for the junior high school students where they joined a tremendous crowd of holiday visitors. Sunday the band again enjoyed Disney World until 3 p.m. when they went to "River Country" for some swimming, water slides and aquatic activities, according to Kruse. Students returned to the junior high school at 8 p.m. Monday night along with 14 chaperones who were along to help Kruse. "The bus trip represented the greatest distance for this large of a group to travel from Romulus in the history of the Romulus Community School system," Kruse said.

Fifth and sixth graders from Merriman and Hayti Elementary Schools performed numbers taken from the Broadway hit 'Standing Room Only' during a performance at Hayti on May 25. The group also performed as part of an elementary school musical program at Romulus High School that same night. Deborah Street, who is the vocal music teacher for Merriman and Hayti schools, was the director of the program. Included in the evening performance was choral selections from Wick Elementary under the direction of Gwen Nelson. ANP photos by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Parents and students in attendance did not like the idea. "We don't want insert, they're too easily lost—we want the yearbooks reprinted at their cost and mailed to the students," said Evelyn Koerber, a parent in attendance.

Sprinkle added, "Would you buy a car without wheels? Well, Mr. Knight should not have accepted the yearbooks, he should have taken one look at the yearbooks and sent them back. I mean, even the cover is wrong," Sprinkle said. She added that Knight told her that he did not even open the boxes of yearbooks to proofread them before distributing them to the students.

Several high school seniors in attendance told board members that they had not gotten what they paid $19 for.

"The main objective of a business is to satisfy its customers. They didn't, so they should fix their mistakes at no cost and give us new yearbooks or we should get our money back and never give our business to them again," said senior Crystal Markowski who pointed out several senior pictures that were mislabeled.

"I just want to be able to look in my yearbook 20 or 25 years from now and remember my friends. I can't do that if they aren't in there," said senior Sherri McFall.

Several high school band members and boosters were in attendance to tell the board members that they were of the opinion that Knight did not give recognition where it was due.

"It's ridiculous that the golf team (which Knight coaches) had a page in the yearbook that included a team photo and individual photos of all the team when there is not even one group photo of the band and we were number one in the state for the first time in Romulus High history," said senior drum major Kim Wehrmeister. "There are five bands at the high school and we got six pictures. But it's not only the band, the football team didn't even have a team photo," Wehrmeister added.

The band also notified the board that they felt Knight should be removed as yearbook advisor. At that point, Bedell said that it was unfair to criticize Knight when he was not in attendance. He invited everyone back for the June 27 meeting and also said that Knight would be requested to attend that meeting to answer questions.

GM-CPC is one of several Romulus businesses participating in "Art in the Workplace," chaired by Percy and designed to highlight students' artwork. White's artwork was one of 12 pieces chosen last year by a panel of judges to be displayed in businesses throughout Romulus on a monthly basis. Percy said that the success of the program has prompted "Art in the Workplace" to continue next year. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Reorganization likely

State lawmakers expected to act this week

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

A bill that would allow the restructuring of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority is expected to pass both houses of the state Legislature this week, according to one local lawmaker.

The bill, House Bill 5755, would amend Public Act 47 to allow the dismantling of the public health care organization. Public Act 47 was passed by state lawmakers in 1945 to form the PCHA, which owns and operates five western Wayne County and Downriver hospitals including Annapolis, in Wayne; Beyer Memorial, Ypsilanti; Seaway, Trenton; Heritage, Taylor; and Outer Drive, Lincoln Park — and ambulatory care centers in Brownstown Township, Livonia and Westland.

"We expect the House to enact a bill (this) week which would allow PCHA to reorganize and transfer assets to a private, nonprofit corporation," said state Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township). "The legislation defines that the private, nonprofit organization must be in the business of health care."

The PCHA restructuring was requested by board members last year. The idea was first proposed in 1986, when hospital officials cited a declining occupancy rate and financially troubled operations as reasons for the move. Hospital officials predicted that, by 1992, the PCHA would have depleted an almost $30 million cash reserve account.

Passage of legislation for restructuring would be good news to PCHA board members, who on May 26 approved an affiliation agreement with Oakwood Health Services Corp., of Dearborn. In the agreement, all PCHA and Oakwood facilities would remain separate, but patients and staff at both facilities would have access to the services of the other.

Employee groups would also remain separate under the plan, and contractual agreements with labor unions representing about one-third of the 3,000 PCHA employees would be unaffected.

Before state lawmakers would consider the restructuring proposal, state Speaker of the House Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti Township) commissioned a University of Michigan Hospitals study of the future of the hospital authority. In the study, released last fall, U of M Hospitals officials recommended that the five PCHA hospitals be sold. An alternative to the sale was an affiliation with a tertiary health care organization or educational institution.

The PCHA has been on the downslide since 1986, when the authority lost $4 million, according to Maureen Camps, director of community relations. In 1987, the PCHA lost $2.7 million. A $2.3 million loss is expected for the fiscal year which ends June 30.

The operating losses are due in part to a decline in occupancy, Camps said. Currently, 50 percent of the 1,150 PCHA beds are filled.

In the reorganization, the PCHA would assume a new name, Camps said. Bylaws and articles of incorporation have already been drafted and were approved by PCHA board members last year.

See BILL, page A-8

Newspaper wants meeting restaged

The Associated Newspapers has asked for a restaging of the meeting in which an affiliation agreement between the Peoples Community Hospital Authority and Oakwood Health Services Corp. was approved by PCHA board members.

Newspaper officials contend that a portion of the May 26 PCHA special board meeting was staged in violation of the Michigan Open Meetings Act.

In a letter to PCHA board Chairman Donald J. Pizzimenti, Associated Newspapers Managing Editor Ray Day asked that the meeting be rescheduled and that all decisions made during the meeting be restaged. Such a reenactment of the May 26 meeting, Day said, would put the PCHA board in compliance with the Opening Meetings Act.

"After discussion with your hospital spokesperson, Maureen Camps, and attorney, B. Ward Smith, it has been made clear that this closed meeting was staged in direct violation of the Michigan Open Meetings Act," Day wrote. "Please be advised that this letter will put you, the PCHA board and administration on notice that this newspaper will not accept violations of the Michigan Open Meetings Act in the interest of the readers we serve."

The Open Meetings Act is a state statute requiring that all meetings of a public body be open to the public and be conducted in a place available to the general public. All deliberations of a public body in which a quorum (majority) of members are present must be conducted in compliance with the act.

The statute also gives provisions for the required posting of meetings of the public body, minutes that are to be taken during the meetings and defines when a meeting may be closed to the public.

Closed meetings are allowed in eight circumstances, including the following: personnel discipline, student discipline, strategy and negotiation sessions connected with the negotiations of a collective bargaining agreement, to consider the purchase or lease of real property up to the time of an option, to consult with an attorney regarding trial or settlement strategy in connection with specific litigation, to review the contents of an application for employment, partisan caucuses of members of the state legislature and to consider material already exempt from discussion or disclosure by state or federal statute.

Noncompliance with the Open Meetings Act by a public body can result in the invalidation of all decisions made during the meeting by the courts. Intentional violations of the act by a public official can result in a fine and/or imprisonment.

However, a public body can reenact a meeting said to be in violation of the act and reenact all decisions made during the original meeting to conform to the state statute.

In alleging the Open Meetings Act violation, Day cited a one-hour, 45-minute period in which reporters and members of the public at the May 26 meeting were asked to leave the PCHA board room. The "closed meeting" was necessary for discussions about the impending affiliation agreement with Oakwood, according to PCHA attorney B. Ward Smith.

"I guess, primarily, the reason was because of the difficulty I had discussing the agreement with Oakwood Hospital. They (Oakwood) didn't want it all spread around," Smith said. "I recognize the problem. But it's all out there now. This is the problem with a public hospital."

"I look at it as an attorney-client privilege. Had they not closed the meeting, I would never have discussed (the agreement)," Smith continued. "There was some certain information in there that (Oakwood) just didn't want in the newspapers before it got to their board."

The Oakwood board of directors met May 27 to approve the pact.

As for a reenactment of the May 26 meeting, Smith said he was unsure whether that would be necessary since the actual vote on the agreement was taken during the open portion of the meeting.

Day, however, disagreed.

"As I am sure you can understand, it is the duty of this newspaper and all members of the media to ensure that the rights and freedoms of the people we serve are protected and followed to the letter of the law," Day wrote. "While we are confident that members of the PCHA board did not intend to knowingly violate the provisions of state law, we cannot help but question the motives and nature of discussion during this closed session."

At the May 26 meeting, PCHA board members approved 27-0 the affiliation agreement with Oakwood, contingent upon the PCHA being allowed by the state Legislature to become a private, nonprofit organization. The PCHA restructuring is needed, hospital authority officials contend, for the five PCHA hospitals to remain competitive and financially sound in the health-care business.

Cuts threaten bus service

The Nankin Transit Commission will try to stay afloat as members of the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority Board adopt a budget calling for only 11 months of service in 1989.

The $91.7 million budget adopted by the SEMTA Board last week provides money for only 11 months of operation for the upcoming year. The budget would force SEMTA to cease operations for the month of June in 1989.

The budget fix may mean the same fate for Nankin Transit, according to Charlie Hunter, transportation director.

"I don't know exactly what it will mean to us except that we might have to cut services for that month," Hunter said.

Nankin Transit is a private contractor serving the elderly and handicapped in Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Inkster and Canton Township.

"SEMTA doesn't have the money to pass on to us," Hunter said.

Nankin is facing a $114,000 deficit of its own, and officials are uncertain of how to deal with it, Hunter said.

Passengers currently pay $1 to ride Nankin buses. Hunter said he hopes to avoid a fare increase.

"We don't want to ask for more money from a segment of the population that really can't afford it," Hunter said.

The SEMTA Board opposed a fare increase as an option for saving money. The current $1 bus fare is already among the highest in the United States.

Hunter said this budget crunch is not a one-time deal.

Graduation was anything but a sad day for Romulus Senior High School seniors Matt Moelenda (kneeling), Bill Singleton (from left), James Wadsworth and John Wadsworth. The three waved their last farewell to the school they have come to know so well.

THE CLASS of 1988

Romulus High students eye challenges of world

Thirteen years ago, this group of students could only dream of the year 1988. Today, those dreams will be the world of tomorrow.

Seniors from Romulus Senior High School, in Romulus, marked the official end to the high school career Sunday during commencement ceremonies staged at the Crisler Arena, Ann Arbor. Students donned their caps and gowns and marched to hymns of "Pomp and Circumstance" into the arena. The day was an end to the hallways and classrooms of the school on Wayne Road, but it was also the beginning of the many endless streets of life.

Members of the Romulus High Class of 1988 chose several items and thoughts to mark the graduation memory. Class motto was "Going out in style." Class flower was the white rose, and colors were royal blue and silver.

Music during the ceremony was provided by the award-winning Romulus High School band and choir. Senior class advisory was Sue Hiser.

The graduating seniors were directed this year by a handful of student leaders. They included senior class President Candace Silvery, Vice President Christine Murray, Secretary Julie Jones, Treasurer Susan Nash, Parliamentarian Christine Mattis.

Students were also led academically by class valedictorians Paul Pyenta and salutatorian Tracy Allen.

Looking back, the seniors, no doubt, may shed a tear, remember a moment of laughter and rejoice in the many accomplishments of high school. But looking ahead, these same seniors can look forward to facing the many challenges of life, sharing a few more moments of sorrow and joy and rejoicing in the many accomplishments of which they now have control.

Souvenir pages are available

An aluminum, non-yellowing souvenir copy of this special graduation page is available from the Associated Newspapers.

Orders are being accepted through Friday, June 24 at the newspaper offices, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne 48184.

Cost is $20 per page, which is a full-size, metal replica of this page suitable for framing. Payment must be made in advance of order.

These souvenir editions make perfect graduation gifts and lasting memories for members of the class of 1988.

Orders are being accepted at the newspaper offices or by phone, 729-4000, for MasterCard and VISA users. If ordering in person, a check or money order will be accepted when the order is placed.

The souvenir plates will be available for pickup at the newspaper offices during the first week in July. Those ordering the plates will be notified by phone when the order is ready.

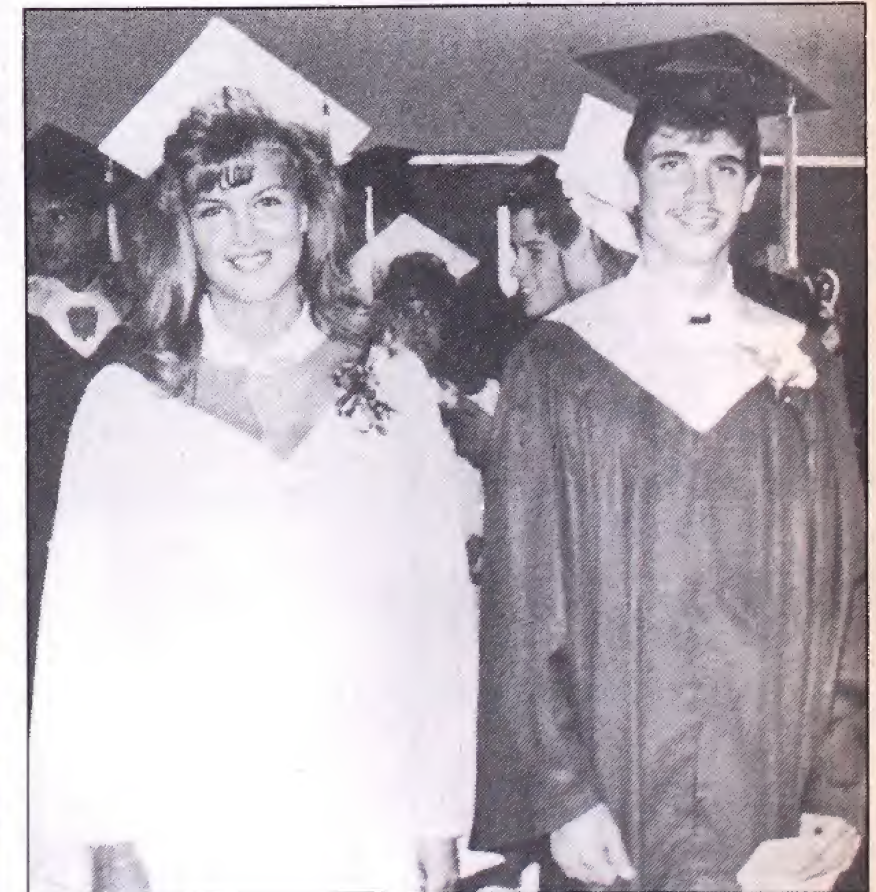

For more information, call our newsroom at 729-4000.

Perfect symbols of the Romulus class of 1988 have to be Renee Hardt (above) and Paul Pyenta. The two were chosen as the "all around senior girl and boy" by members of their graduating class. Before the graduation ceremonies began, students were required to sign in.

DIGEST

Drug inventory
may be mandated

A proposed law would require that drug wholesalers keep records and maintain inventories to conform with the record-keeping requirements of federal law.

The bill would make it easier to keep potentially addictive medications out of the illegal drug market. Any person licensed to manufacture, distribute, prescribe or dispense controlled substances would be affected in the bill.

Members of the state Senate and House are expected to approve the proposed law, after a conference committee report was adopted.

Plant closing notice is eyed

A bill currently in the state House labor committee would require large Michigan businesses to provide at least 60 days notice before closing a plant.

AIDS education
bill in Senate

Having passed the state House, a bill now in the Senate education committee would require training for school health educators who teach students about Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

Revised bill is in Senate

An estimated 115,000 Michigan seniors ages 65 and older who don't qualify for Medicaid and who have limited incomes would be eligible for prescription coverage under a bill now in the Senate appropriation committee, after the bill passed the state House.

The subsidized prescription program would be funded with a tax on smokeless tobacco and the elimination of a tax exemption on railroad property.

Medicaid: Senior reaction of proposal mixed

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Local senior citizens have mixed reactions about the Medicare expansion plan passed last week by members of the U.S. Senate.

Major concern of the expansion was that the change would only benefit long-term illnesses instead of short-term ones.

Edith Brill, senior member at the Dyer Center, Westland, said she has a feeling more money will go out of her pocket and not enough back in.

"I think it will cost me more. If someone has a lingering illness, then it will benefit them more. If my spouse were to get very ill or I were to get ill, then it could benefit us. But I think it is a step forward. I'm happy with it," Brill said.

At the Canton Recreation Center, several members of the Canton Pioneers Senior Club expressed their concern about the expansion. Views ranged from displeasure to praise.

Lilah Griffith said she believes more money will be dishied out by the seniors.

"It's a good concept, but it will cost us more in the long run. Even when I first heard about it, I didn't like it. We need care very badly but in a different form," said Griffith.

Her husband, Guy Griffith, had a slightly different viewpoint.

"I think it's great that it happened. I figure it's going to be worth it. As a union man, we always had a rule of thumb — 'Get your foot caught in the door. If you get your foot caught in the door, you're all right,'" Griffith said. "The way I look at it, if you get your foot in the door, maybe you can even get better."

Guy said he sees the expansion as a victory for seniors.

"Anything that benefits the seniors is good in the long run. It will even be better for the younger generation."

Seniors at the Westland Friendship Center also have mixed comments on the expansion.

Alice Jarman, a retired United Auto Workers employee, said she had several concerns about the package.

"They're not doing anything about the basic care patients at nursing homes. For one thing, you should have more days at home of nursing care because you're saving the nursing homes money."

Currently, Medicare pays for 38 days of home nursing care. Before the change, it only paid for 21 days of nursing care, limited to five visits per week.

Overall, Jarman said, the expansion is a start. But, like the others, she said more needs to be supplied to the seniors.

"They really need to do a lot more. This is just a start. They need to expand it even more."

Another member said she believes the change was a good idea. Seniors need all the help they can get, she said.

"A little bit of something is a lot better than nothing," she explained.

Jarman said the cost of care continuously increases for seniors, and "many of them don't have much money. They can't spend it all on their health. We need some more help in some form or another."

The Senate Medicare expansion bill now heads to the U.S. House of Representatives for consideration.

State lawmakers have a month to 'wrap it up'

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

State lawmakers have only a few weeks left in the legislative year to push their "pet bills" through the Legislature.

Three area politicians have bills they would like to see go through the House and Senate before the summer recess begins, which is expected to be July 4.

State Sen. William Faust (D-Wayne) said he has several bills he would like to see passed before the current session comes to an end. Faust said he would like to see the Underwater Preservation bill passed. The bill would create two additional water preservation sites in Michigan waters.

Currently, there are three.

"These preserves contain sunken ships and vessels. The bill says the people who dive in these areas cannot take anything. This would preserve them just on the site designated," Faust said. "The underwater preservation is not always an entire body of water. It may only be a 20-mile area in Lake Michigan or something like that."

The bill, Senate Bill 721, has already passed the Senate and now has moved to the House.

Before the recess starts, Faust would like two bills passed, bills which request a total of $50,000 for restoration projects. One would request $40,000 for preservation and restoration of Nankin Mills, in Westland, while the other would ask for $10,000 for historical purposes in Romulus.

Another state representative has his own pet bills he would like to see go through the system. Rep. Jim Kosteva (D-Canton Township) said the first bill he would like to see passed before the recess is a truck-safety package. He described the package as "about 20 bills dealing with different areas of truck safety."

"This would be for truck safety and there are a number of technical amendments for inspection of vehicles, better (truck) driver training programs and various other areas."

Kosteva said he would also like to have a child seatbelt protection amendment passed. Currently, children ages 4 to 12 do not have to wear seatbelts in the rear seats of vehicles. Under Kosteva's bill, children between those ages would be required to wear safety belts.

"We're finding it's not safe for the kids to be free to move in the back seat. During accidents, the kids can get hurtled all through the vehicle."

Also before the legislative year-end, Kosteva would like to see a "quality of life" bond proposal go through the legislature. The proposal, he said, would supply $800 million to three areas in the state, including environmental cleanup, public recreational improvements and Gov. Blanchard's satisfaction of having an individual committed to economic development purposes.

Relieve the pain of commuting. Take SEMTA twice daily.

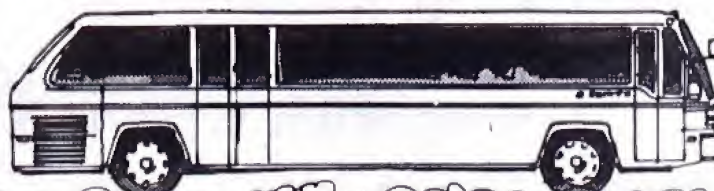

Oh, hello, there! P'raps you're wondering what a penguin like me is doing on a SEMTA bus. Actually, I'm just looking down from my window on all the traffic while I take the easy way to work and back.

Personally, I don't see how people who drive themselves to work have any energy left after dealing with all that stop and go down there. For my part, I prescribe taking SEMTA twice daily to relieve the pain of commuting.

I read my paper while one of the best drivers in Southeastern Michigan takes me where I want to go. SEMTA takes me shopping, to Greenfield Village and other fun places, too. It's comfortable, enjoyable and, if I may say so, economical as well.

Won't you join me, high above the traffic in a SEMTA bus? If you want information about schedules, routes and fares, ring up the friendly person at 962-5515. Say a penguin sent you. Then rise above it all with SEMTA. Ah, here's where I get off. Cheery bye!

AIDS information in mail keeps health workers busy

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Reaction has been positive toward an AIDS informational packet sent to local households recently, according to county health department officials.

All Wayne County residents should have received brochures in the mail containing information about Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome. The brochure, titled "Understanding AIDS," has been sent to 107 million households throughout the U.S. by the Centers for Disease Control, in consultation with United States Surgeon General, Dr. C. Everett Koop, and other public health officials and medical experts.

According to officials at the Wayne County Health Department, there are three main objectives to the mass mailing of information on AIDS. These include the following:

To make it clear how AIDS is and is not transmitted so people can protect themselves without having unnecessary fears.

To make it clear that behaviors, not identifications with "risk groups," put people at risk.

To stimulate informed discussions about AIDS within families, between sexual partners and at all levels of society by presenting the facts and showing people how AIDS relates to their own lives.

Dr. Donald Lawrenchuk, medical director for the Wayne County Health Department said, "AIDS has become the number-one public health concern facing the nation today. Already in Michigan, there have been over 652 cases of AIDS reported since 1979. In addition, an estimated 10,000 to 30,000 people in Michigan are already infected with the AIDS virus."

"Education of high-risk persons is the best means available to curb the spread of AIDS, and education of the general public is needed to promote understanding and reduce unwarranted fears," he continued.

Lawrenchuk thinks people have been reading the brochures because they want to know about AIDS. He also thinks that people have responded well to the information.

"I have been conducting an informal survey of people I encounter, and I ask them if they've read the brochures and if they learned anything from them. I've gotten favorable responses. People do take the time to read the brochure because they are concerned," Lawrenchuk said.

Officials at the county health department have also seen a response to the brochures.

Since the AIDS brochures have been in circulation, the number of telephone calls to the health department has greatly increased. Most of the questions asked are about AIDS.

"We generally have several hundred calls a week. But, in the last couple weeks since the mailing began, the number has tripled. Most of the people calling have read the brochures and are asking more sophisticated questions about AIDS," Lawrenchuk said. "The people are beginning to realize that certain behavior puts them at risk. Who you are doesn't matter as much as your behavior."

From 1979 through March of this year, there has been a total of 60,852 AIDS cases reported nationwide. Of that total, 56 percent - 34,088 people - have died.

During that same time period, Wayne County Health Department records show there have been 644 AIDS cases in Michigan, and 86 percent of the reported cases - 554 people - have been in people between the ages of 20 and 49 years old. Fifty-nine percent of the total cases - 378 people - have been fatal ones.

The numbers to call for more information on AIDS or free AIDS testing at the Wayne County Health Department Disease Control Division are 467-3325, 467-3326 and 467-3327.

Bill

The new health care organization would be governed by a 14-member board of directors. Two members on the board would be from Oakwood.

The new private, nonprofit organization would be free to enter into business ventures and agreements under the reorganization plan, and public disclosure of meetings and documents would not be necessary.

Currently, the PCHA is a public body, governed by a 47-member board of directors. It is funded by an up to .04-mill tax levy on residents of the 24 member PCHA communities. The tax levy is currently set at .02 mills.

Each community sends one or two representatives to the board, and seven members have at-large positions. Board members meet each month at the PCHA administrative offices, on Annapolis, at Venoy, in Wayne.

Critics of the PCHA reorganization plan contend that a $23 million surplus in the capital improvements fund should be refunded to the 24 member communities. The surplus was accumulated from tax levies and is to be used to repay bonds issued to build the five hospitals and purchase equipment.

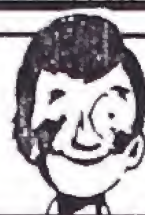

PCHA officials, however, maintain that the surplus cannot be refunded without crippling the future of a new, nonprofit PCHA. About $18.5 million in outstanding bonds still must be repaid before PCHA can be reorganized. Under the current plan, the monies would be set aside in an escrow account for the bond repayment, and any remaining funds and all assets would be transferred to the new organization.

Such a plan is the only way the future of the health care organization can be preserved, Kosteva said.

"Absent of a sale, affiliation was the next best alternative. I feel good about the affiliation. I believe it will benefit the communities," Kosteva said. "By virtue of this transfer (of assets and cash surplus), we are not losing out. If we go along as we are now, the hospitals might fold. That's where we would really lose out."

Kosteva said final approval of the PCHA reorganization bill by state House and Senate members should come before the end of this week.

Opinion

Call us 'bad guys,' we're doing our job

Some would call us "bad guys." Others think we thrive on public disclosure of wrongdoing. Still, others think we too often step out of bounds.

We, however, feel we are doing the job readers expect of us, a job given to us when the founders of this nation framed the laws of the land. This week, we received a chance to prove it.

The Associated Newspapers this week asked members of the board of directors of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority to restage a May 26 board meeting. It was at that meeting that an affiliation agreement was approved between PCHA and Oakwood Health Services Corp., contingent upon PCHA being allowed to become a private, nonprofit organization.

We believe that the PCHA board directly violated the Michigan Open Meetings Act by closing a major portion of the meeting to members of the public and press. The Open Meetings Act is a state statute requiring that all meetings of a public body be open to the public and be conducted in a place available to the general public. Members of a public body can in eight specific instances close a meeting to the public.

The reasons for closing the May 26 PCHA board meeting, however, do not fit squarely into any of those eight exceptions.

In discussions with a PCHA representative this week, we were asked, "What is it you guys want? You have all of the information, don't you. Everything is out there now."

Yes, we do have all needed information about the affiliation agreement. We have reported on that. We have examined the information presented and concluded that the data seems complete and solid.

However, this fact remains: members of the PCHA board of directors are not above the law in any sense. The Michigan Open Meetings Act was clearly written to protect the interests of the public and ensure that government is "of the people, by the people and for the people" of this land. This democracy and principal of freedoms and liberties predate us all. The concept is profound, no doubt, but it is also not too complex to be understood by us all.

We are sure that the PCHA board members did not intentionally violate the Michigan Open Meetings Act. But we cannot help but question the motives and nature of discussion during this closed session.

According to the PCHA attorney, the meeting was closed to the public and press so that detailed news of the agreement did not reach the Oakwood board of directors before they voted on the pact the next day. Such an excuse is weak and, more importantly, is not covered in the language of the law.

Perhaps, as a newspaper, we are not always the spectacle of popularity. Indeed, we could even be called "bad guys," depending on one's interpretation of "bad." Our own examples of "bad guys," however, certainly would not include those people who are striving to protect the rights and interests of the people of this land.

As a newspaper, it is our job to be the watchdogs of government. Were we to shirk that responsibility and ignore blatant infringements on the rights of the readers we serve, we would be betraying a pledge to journalistic professionalism, ethics and service—characteristics as vital to our profession as they are to doctors, attorneys and even public officials.

Today, we urge PCHA board members to restage the May 26 board meeting in a manner that is in complete compliance with the Michigan Open Meetings Act. We also put these officials on notice that this newspaper will not accept future violations of this act in the interest of the readers we serve.

No, we are not trying to be "bad guys" or muckrakers. We are not even trying to step out of bounds.

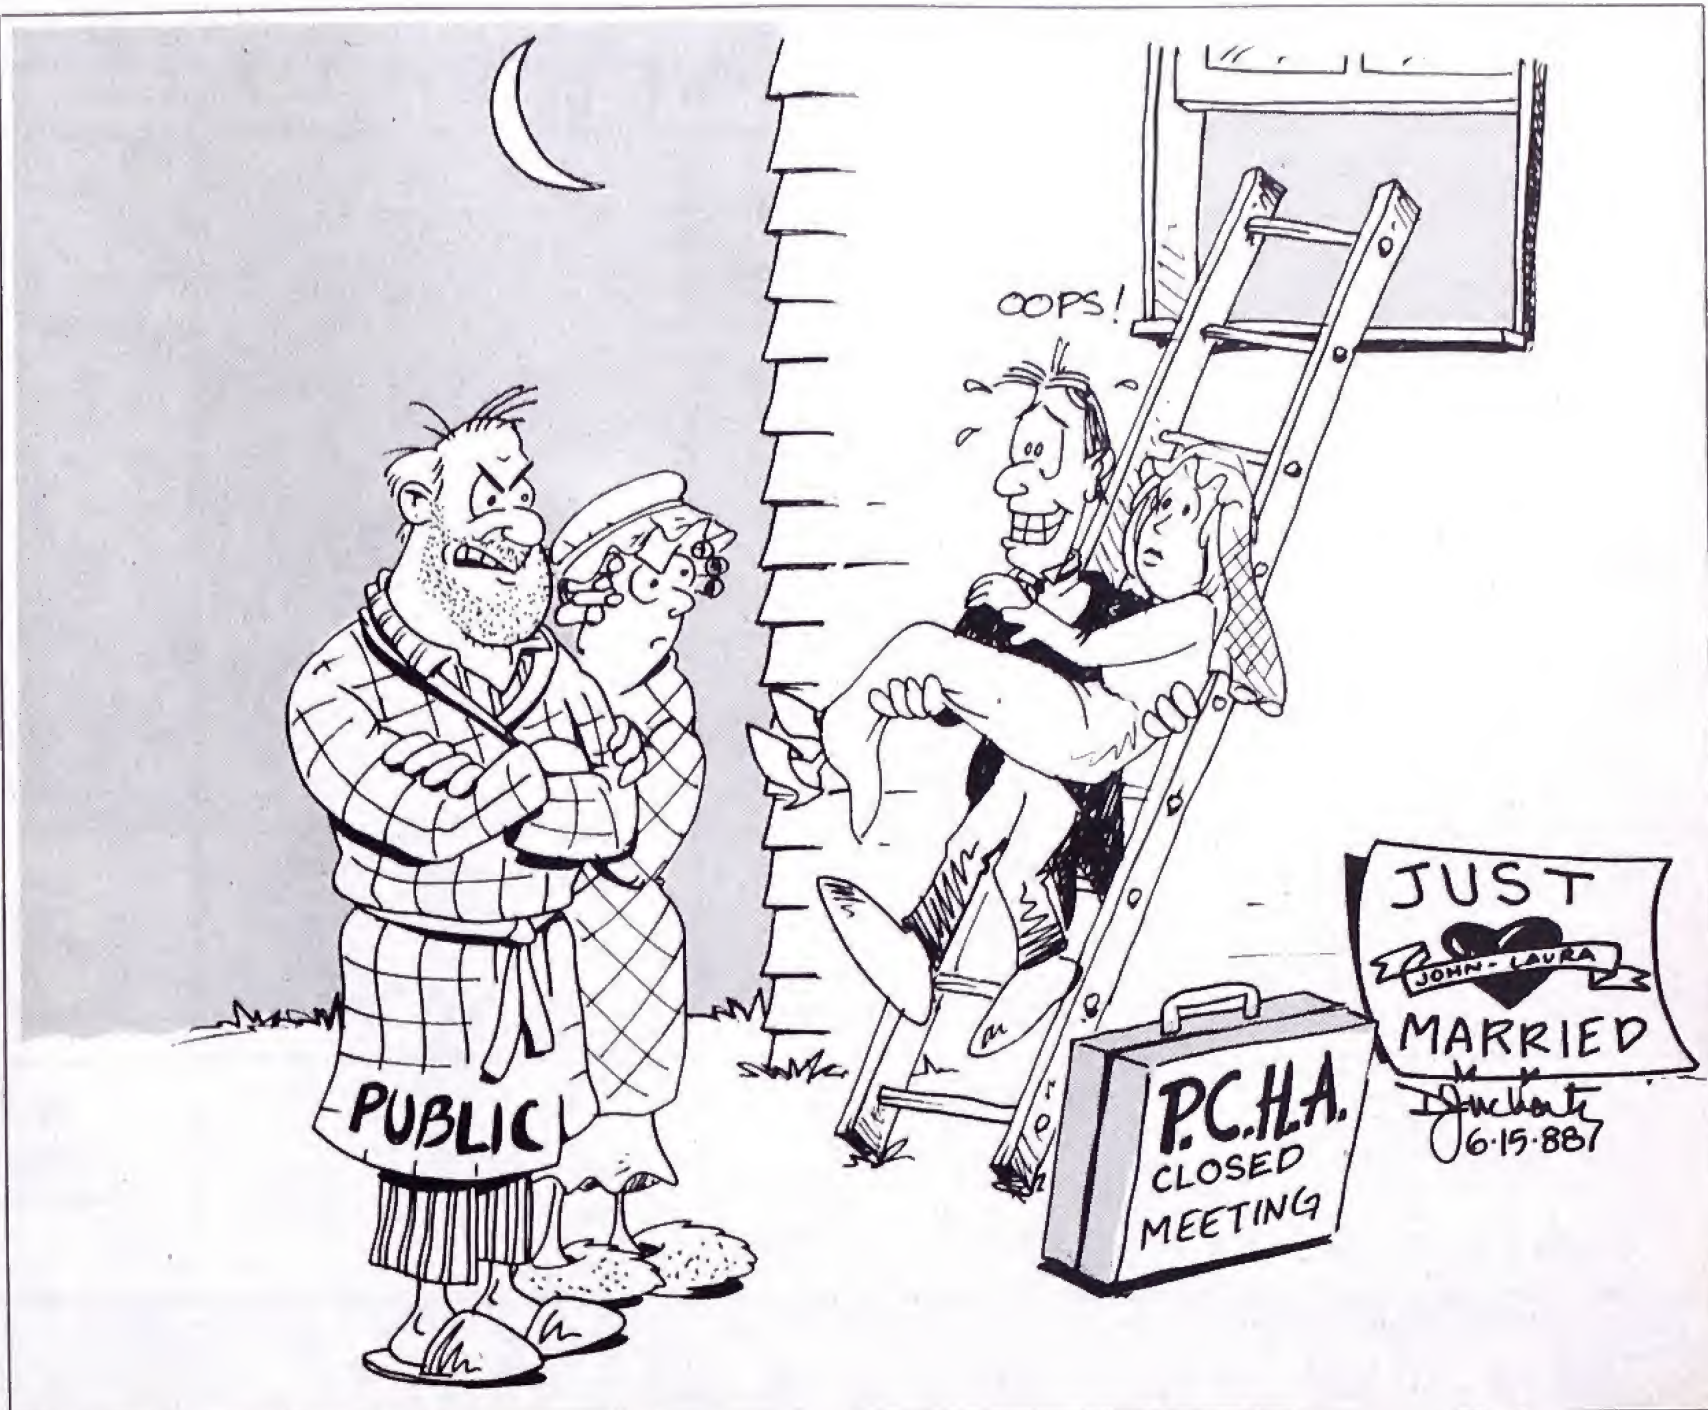

We are trying to perform our job in the manner expected of us by members of the public whom we serve. Now, it is time for the PCHA board members to follow that example and perform their job as public officials in the same way.

Jail millage is needed

A ballot proposal for enhancement of jails in Wayne County is a vote in the truth to the old rule of thumb "It's better to be safe than sorry."

Wayne County voters should expect to see the 1-mill request for funding for jails in the county on the Aug. 2 primary ballot. The ballot issue comes after months of deliberations about the need for such a request and more than a year of urgent pleas from law enforcement officials about the lack of jail space in Wayne County.

County officials are correct in allowing the voters to decide the fate of this issue. The safety of these residents is important. County officials won't be sorry for the move.

Health assessment effort applauded

Lately, much has been made of Annapolis Hospital's involvement with the Wayne-Westland Teen Health Assessment project. As a longtime resident of the community and mother of two teenagers, I applaud the efforts of the hospital on behalf of our children and families.

The health assessment project is a broad-based group because health care and the results of a lack of care are functions of multiple agencies and disciplines. By no means is this a simple, one-dimensional issue.

It seems clear that any discussion of health-related subjects must necessarily include caregiving agencies. Yet opponents wish to exclude one of the community's largest care-givers. Why?

Probably, because the real issue is not the hospital's involvement in discussion but, rather, the fact that open, free discussion is taking place at all.

I commend the hospital administrators and board of directors for having the courage to take part in the project. I am sure it would be far easier to sit back and collect fees generated by poor health management and risk-taking behavior. However, hospital leaders have demonstrated a conscience and a commitment to improve the quality of life in the community they serve. Doesn't that make Annapolis Hospital an asset to the community?

School dance class should not be cut

As the Wayne Memorial High School dancers pack up the last of the costumes and scenery from the concert "Illusions" this year, the reality strikes that there may never be another dance concert.

The dance classes will no longer be offered at Wayne Memorial. This program, that is open to all students but dominated by the females, is being dropped. None of the male-dominated physical education classes have been affected.

We applaud and support the only two board members that had the courage and understanding to vote against the staff and program cuts before all of the alternatives were fully explored. Those two board members are Sylvia Kozorosky-Wiacek and Kathy Chorbagan.

We ask all former and future students who want to keep the dance program active and as options available for the physical education requirement to let the board members know this is not an acceptable cutback.

Editor's note: School officials said this week that no classes have, to date, been cancelled. Therefore, the students' claims in this letter are not substantiated.

Geer School support shows local pride

On behalf of the Geer School Restoration Committee, we would like to thank and acknowledge the students, staff and administration of West Middle School (in the Plymouth-Canton school district). They collected more than $325 through a Geer School pencil sale.

A special thanks to the Junior National Honor Society students and their sponsor, Mrs. Porterfield, for organizing the sale. Dominos Pizza 1069, on Main Street (in Plymouth), donated a pizza party for the homeroom with the highest sales. Miss Ontko's sixth-graders were the winners.

More than $2,600 worth of pencils have been purchased by elementary and middle school students and others interested in the Geer project. These proceeds will support the restoration of the one-room school. Pencils are available at the board of education office.

The sales at Field, Fiegel, Gallimore, Hulsing, Isbister, Miller, Smith and Tanger were especially successful this year. The Allen students also sponsored a used-toy sale and donated the proceeds for Geer School.

The community support of our project is greatly appreciated.

Regional championship

Taylor Center bursts Belleville softball bubble, 12-9

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

State-ranked Taylor Center, getting some unexpected but welcomed help from the Belleville defense, rallied for a 12-9 victory over Coach Peggy Curtis's girls and eliminated the Tigers in the championship round of the Class A regional softball playoffs staged Saturday afternoon at King Boring Field in Dearborn.

Taylor Center worked its way to a 3-0 third inning lead before Belleville countered with four runs of its own in the bottom of that inning and added a pair of runs in the next inning to build up a 6-3 lead before the roof collapsed on the Tigers.

Committing costly errors and with Belleville ace pitcher Brenda Brooks having problems finding the strike zone, Taylor scored seven big runs in the top of the fifth to snatch the lead back for good, 10-6, en route to the victory.

"We gave this one to them," said Curtis whose club brought the curtains down on a 27-8 won-lost season. "We made a total of five errors which isn't typical of our defense, and Brooks (Brenda) just couldn't find the strike zone."

"And we didn't execute well in key situations," she added.

It was on Brooks's arm that the Tigers made their way into the championship round. The senior hurler subdued Highland Park

These kids have nothing to be ashamed about. They had a fantastic season. It was unfortunate that we had a letdown in the regional championship game. But that happens. That's baseball. That's sports, and that's what it's all about.

— Coach Peggy Curtis

earlier in the day, 11-1, giving up one hit, striking out 10 and walking only one.

The Tigers got to losing pitcher Anne Joyner for two runs in the first inning, added one more in the second, and went on to score three runs in the third and fourth before calling it a day thanks to the "mercy rule" after scoring two runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Cathy Murphy, who belted two home runs for the series, collected two hits off of Joyner including a 2-run fourth inning roundtripper. Christie Garrett and Becki Preston also checked in with two hits with Preston also belting one for the distance.

The victory was Belleville's 26th against seven losses.

The victory also was the Tigers' ticket into the championship game and they went up against a Taylor Center team that was ranked as high as fifth in the state rankings.

Belleville outhit the Rams 11-5 but in the all-important run column only managed to put nine on the board against a pair of Taylor pitchers.

Taylor drew blood first as the Rams scored one run in the first inning, then went ahead 3-0 in the third. The Tigers came back in the bottom of the third with a 4-run surge thanks to Marcy Korgal's walk, a single by Becki Fitch and, with runners on first and second, Murphy came to the plate and hammered a Denning pitch over the leftfielder's head for a 3-run homer.

The Tigers weren't through with the Taylor starter, Garrett then got to her for a solo blast to lift the Tigers up 4-3.

"It looked as if we had recovered from our early sluggishness," Curtis noted, "and I felt that we had things under control."

Although Brooks got out of the next inning without any damage and her teammates provided her with two more runs on singles by Brandi Price and Korgal, and a wild pitch which advanced the runners. They scored when Fitch and Murphy each bounced into fielder's choices.

Demise of golf tournament premature

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

To paraphrase the famous quote about Mark Twain's death, "the death of the city golf tournament is premature..."

Rumors have been running rampant that the summer golf classic staged by The Associated Newspapers and cosponsored by the parks and recreation has seen its final days are just that - rumor.

The fact is that the annual tournament will be staged in late July or early August. No definitive date has been set because veteran tournament manager Bill Hawley is negotiating with several golf courses.

"I have already had some inquiries about the tournament," Hawley said by telephone on Monday, "and I want them (the golfers) to know that we are planning to hold this tournament again this year."

"If you're a golfer you know that some of the local courses have hiked their prices, and that is one of the obstacles we're having right now. We're trying to make this thing affordable so that we can get as many competitors in it as we can."

The golf tournament, nearing its 30th year, is staged to determine the top five amateur male golfers in the cities of Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Romulus, Garden City, and Canton Township. The top five finishers in the cham-

Line up your putts and brush up your golf games, the Associated Newspapers is putting the final touches to the 1988 City Golf Tournament. Trophies are awarded to the top three finishers in each of the flights and a medalist (low scorer) is determined for the entire tournament.

There is only accommodation for 100 golfers in this tournament and tee-times are assigned on a first come, first serve basis.

Next week, the ANP hopefully will provide additional information.

Romulus places 9 on All-Conference teams

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The boys may have finished last, and the girls were bridesmaids in the newly-aligned South Central Conference baseball and softball leagues, but when it came time to select all-conference teams Romulus took a back seat to none of their SCC rivals.

Coach Dennis Stoh's Eagles placed three players on the SAC First Team, while Coach Bill Cuhran's second-place SCC team had five drafted for First Team recognition.

Brad Boyd, Shawn Shelby and Steve Hoinka have earned the historic distinction of being the first Romulus ball players named by the SCC baseball coaches to the all-conference team.

Boyd, a lanky 5 feet, 10, 175-pound senior batted .345 during the 1988 campaign. A member of the Eagles' varsity club for two years, Boyd is an excellent college prospect and is leaning toward Olivet College as his next scholastic and athletic stop.

Shelby, 6 feet, 3 and 190-pounds, is a junior who will be returning to Stoh's lineup a year from now to hopefully help improve on the Eagles' 4-24 won-lost record. He batted .308 and is viewed as "one of the leaders of the 1989 ball club", according to the Romulus coach.

Hoinka, the final player picked from the Eagle lineup, is a 6-2, 185-pound senior who drilled 3 homers in a .346 season. Steve was Romulus's leading hitter.

In the meantime, Romulus contributed Laurie Berlinn, Jennifer Daniel, Michele Searrow, Kim Lyles and Liz Ward to the all-conference ranks of the South Central softball circuit.

Berlinn, an outstanding all-around athlete who was named to The Associated Newspapers' All-Area basketball team, is also being considered for All-State recognition in softball. Named to the All-Region Team, Laurie played first base for the Eagles who finished with an overall 19-11 record and a 9-4 SCC mark.

Berlinn batted .378 in her junior year and is considered the best first baseman in these parts.

Daniel is only a freshman. Her .402 batting average is proof that she will be a power to contend with in the coming years. Jennifer played short stop for the Eagles and when you look at her overall batting average for the 1988 season - a phenomenal .750, you can understand why the Romulus coaching staff would like the 1988 season to get underway like today.

Daniel also saw action as a pitcher. She piled up a 4-1 league and a 9-4 overall record.

Searrow, also a freshman, hit a whopping .468 during the 1988 campaign. An excellent athlete, she held down third base and was named to the SCC infield.

Lyles, a senior catcher, was the leading hitter in the conference. She batted .521 and finished her senior year with an enviable .416 batting average. She plans to attend Grand Valley State College this fall.

Ward, a pitcher, brought the curtains down on a stellar season. She chalked up a 5-3 SCC and a 9-5 overall record.

End of the Brooks' streak

After subduing Highland Park, 11-1, Saturday in the semifinal round of the Class A regional playoffs, Belleville's ace hurler Brenda Brooks (above) found the going rough against state-ranked Taylor Center in the championship round and dropped a 12-9 decision. The loss left the Tigers out of the state playoffs and with an enviable 27-8 won-lost record for the 1988 softball campaign. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Final fall

Rockets miss chance to win regional

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Westland John Glenn Coach Norm Hoenes may look back at 1988 as a season of missed opportunities. The path to the state championship was certainly reachable for the Rockets, but Taylor Kennedy sent Glenn home with a lot of questions.

"The draw for the districts and regionals couldn't have been better," said Hoenes. "We couldn't have asked for anything better."

The first break came in the districts, when Garden City eliminated Wayne Memorial. The Rockets were again fortunate as Garden City lost before they ever got a shot at a showdown with Glenn.

The breaks continued in the next round.

The first game of the regional matched Glenn with Salem, a good team but beatable. And yet another break in the regional final on Saturday against Taylor Kennedy.

Steve Avery of Kennedy, who is considered by many as the top pitcher in the state, pitched against Catholic Central in the first game and couldn't start against Glenn.

"They (Kennedy) are a fairly average team without Avery on the mound and certainly beatable," said Hoenes. "I am a little disappointed we didn't beat them."

Taylor Kennedy rallied from a 3-0 deficit behind a three-run homer by Avery and defeated the Rockets 8-4 in the regional final at Plymouth-Salem High School.

Kennedy advanced to the state semifinal round.

Glenn jumped out to an early lead, following a three-run second inning. Bryant Satterlee was safe on an error to lead the inning off, and Jerry Shippe drove home Satterlee with a base hit and the Rockets hit the scoreboard first.

Eric Stover drove Shippe in with a double and Glenn had another run. Pat Pettit had his only hit of the day, a single that scored Stover and the Rockets led 3-0.

In the third inning disaster struck. Satterlee, who started the game on the mound for Glenn, gave up back-to-back doubles and a walk which loaded the bases. The senior balked on a pick off attempt which gave Kennedy a first run.

Kennedy tied the game on a base hit which scored two runs. So much for the 3-0 lead.

If the third inning was a disaster, the fourth was a catastrophe.

Satterlee struck out the lead off batter but the ball got away from the catcher and instead of one out, Kennedy had a runner at first base.

Satterlee struck out the next batter, but walked the next. He then recorded another strike out, and Kennedy now had two outs with runners at first and second.

Introducing Steve Avery. Everyone knows he can pitch, but can he hit?

"I thought we could get him out once," said Hoenes. "I probably should have walked him but I didn't. I never got a chance to see him pitch but I sure got a chance to see him hit."

Junior Olympics

Inkster seeks a few good athletes

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster is looking for a few good athletes. They're needed for the annual Junior Olympics and the prestigious Hershey Track & Field Invitational. "Local competition will be conducted first to find talented youngsters to make up our team," said Ronald Wolkowicz, recreation director. "We usually send competitive teams to these events."

Boys and girls, ages 9 through 14, may try out for the city team. They must, however, qualify for the team during competition staged at their local playgrounds.

Tigers

Belleville appeared to have recovered from its earlier doldrums and had everything under control until the top of the fifth inning.

"To Taylor's credit," Curtis said, "they also could have caved in and gave up. But they didn't. That inning (fifth) was like a bad dream."

The seven runs the Rams put on the scoreboard put them in the "final four" and brought the curtains down on an outstanding Belleville season. Taylor advances to the state semifinals to be staged Friday in East Lansing.

Brooks, a senior who earned all-conference honors, piled up 20-7 overall record in leading the Tigers to a district championship. She is the first Belleville pitcher in recent memory to post a pair of no-hitters, accomplishing the feat against Wyandotte (24-0) and Lincoln Park (6-0).

In summing up the 1988 softball campaign, Curtis said that the season was an excellent one.

"These girls have nothing to be ashamed of," the Tiger coach added. "They can hold their heads high. We finished with a 27-8 won-lost record, and I know a lot of teams that would be happy to have that kind of record."

Taylor Center came from behind to edge Belleville 12-9 to win the regional championship. The Rams will advance to the state semifinals in East Lansing on Friday.

Calling all basketball players

The first step to becoming an outstanding basketball players is to learn the fundamentals of the game.

And that's what eagers in grades 5 through 12 will be doing if they participate in the Wayne Memorial summer basketball clinic organized by Wayne Coach Chuck Henry.

The clinic will be staged two weeks, beginning Monday, June 20 at the high school facility.

"We will be stressing fundamentals of the game," said Henry whose varsity basketball teams have dominated the Wolverine 'A' Conference in recent years.

There is a $40 registration fee for the two weeks of instructions.

For further information, contact coach Henry at 729-8022.

All-Area coming your way

With the demise of Westland John Glenn and Belleville baseball and softball teams, the 1988 high school spring season comes to an end. Starting next week, the Associated Newspapers will unveil its traditional All-Area softball and baseball teams. Don't miss this extra attraction to an already exciting season.

Deadline is set for karate registration

A June 20 deadline has been set for those who wish to register for karate classes offered by the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department.

The introductory class in the ancient art of self-defense will cover movements, exercise technique and tradition. The class is opened to both adults - men and women - and children.

Classes will be conducted from 6 to 8 p.m., Monday and Wednesday beginning June 20 at the Inkster Recreation Complex, located on Middlebelt Road, just north of Michigan Ave.

The eight-week session will be instructed by Samuel William, Jr. Registration fee is $50 for those 13 and older; $40 for 12 and under participants.

The recreation department also has purchased new and better weightlifting equipment which will be utilized in a training class that will be offered to men and women who are 18 and older.

The class will be geared at teaching proper techniques in warm-up, lifting and apparatus use, according to recreation officials.

Those heading for local parks during the unseasonable weather also should be advised that some of the parks are undergoing renovations and repairs.

Recreation officials said that Oakgrove, Westwood, LeMoyne, Manor and Wellington Parks this summer are being upgraded thanks to a grant from the Land & Water section of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Residents are also advised that the Inkster Recreation Complex has switched to its summer schedule as of Monday (June 13) and will continue with the schedule until Aug. 28.

The recreation facilities will be open from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and on Friday from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m.

During the summer, the building will be closed on Saturday and Sunday, with the exception of scheduled rentals and open swim sessions, officials stated.

Softball teams take over fields

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With perfect weather greeting them, scores of local and area men's and women's softball teams took to the diamonds last week to begin their quests for divisional and league championships.

In an early showdown for the Class A women's division lead, Brendco proved to Walter's Bar why they are ranked the "team to beat" in their league this season.

But only after a close call.

Brendco's emerged from their duel with Walter's with a 7-6 victory over their rivals to make it seven straight wins for the league pacesetters. The loss dipped Walter's record to 5-3 in the league and into a two-way tie for second place with Toni's Nite Club, which is also 5-3 on the young season.

In the meantime, Document Services kept its stronghold on first place in the Men's Monday/Wednesday League as they buried Davis Auto Body, 10-2, for their eighth victory in nine starts. Davis is one step behind (7-1) with Poly Pro Auto Wash closing in on the two front-runners.

Taylor A.C. stretched its winning streak to three-games at the expense of Garner's Jewelry, 7-5, to remain atop of the Men's Sunday League standings. Four teams - Mobile Home Brokers, Overnight Transport, Garner's Jewelry, and Northwest Airlines - have only one loss to their records.

O'Grady's lost a golden opportunity to take over the top of the standings in the Men's Friday Night Blue Division as they bowed to Chrysler Softball Club in the battle of two undefeated clubs. Chrysler came out of the contest boasting a 9-6 victory.

And over in the Men's Friday Night Red Division, Ed's Hanger, by virtue of a 7-4 victory over Kerr, remained deadlock with Belleville Lodge for first place. Both teams have unblemished 4-0 records.

Two teams are waging a battle for supremacy in the Inkster Softball League. Capt. Nemo's/Splibs and P.S.C. are tied for first place. Each has 4-0 records and the two arch-rivals have a showdown coming up later this week.

In the meantime Barden Cablevision and New Robin-dale Bar are 3-1 and are eagerly waiting for the outcome of the contest between the league co-leaders.

Attention softball coaches, managers

Local and area softball coaches and managers who play in Inkster, Romulus and Van Buren softball and baseball leagues are urged to telephone the results of their games to the Associated Newspapers sports desk.

The ANP sports staff will handle scores during week days, with the exception of Tuesdays, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Telephone 729-4000.

Recreation directors and supervisors who are responsible for leagues also should submit standings and score sheets to the ANP sports desk before 5 p.m. on Friday in order to get the information published in the following week's edition.

Please telephone ANP staff writer Tom Mooradian for further information.
